Does your board understand the role of Commercial Management in achieving Business Excellence?"

Tuesday 2 June 2015, Auckland

Presented by Tim Cummins, CEO of International Association for Contract & Commercial Management (IACCM)

Our presenter for the evening, Tim Cummins, will talk about the recent research, the IACCM programmes rolling out for the UK private and public sectors and the importance of executives understanding their role in leading commercial management to deliver these results.

Tim Cummins, CEO of IACCM said in a press release about a recent public sector project: "The UK Government has shown courage and leadership in its recognition of the critical importance of commercial and contract management skills in today's networked world. It is exciting to work with the Civil Service on this reform program and further reinforces the contribution IACCM is making to both public and private sector organisations in the UK and internationally."

The International Association for Contract & Commercial Management (IACCM) enables both public and private sector organisations and Procurement and Commercial Management professionals, to achieve world-class standards in their contracting and relationship management process and skills.

Recent research by IACCM has confirmed the value to organisations of having a commercial management focus in organisations, public and private with cost saving and impressive ROI delivery.

Over the course of the evening Tim will also share the experience of governance professionals across the world in recognising the importance of contract and commercial management and share some ideas for questions executives and boards should be asking about their organisation's commercial management maturity.
